I was visiting a friend who could not find her home's cordless phone. After several minutes of searching, her young daughter spoke up. "You know what they should invent," she said, "a phone that stays connected so it never gets lost."

For the first time in many years, an old man travels from his rural town to the city, to attend a movie. After buying his ticket, he stops at the concession stand to purchase some popcorn. Handing the attendant five dollars, he can't help but comment, "You know, the last time I was in a movie theatre, popcorn was only 15 cents." "Well, sir," the attendant replies with a grin, "You're really going to enjoy yourself... we have sound now."

"As I get older, he doesn't bother to look at me!" she cries. "I'm so sorry for you," Sandra says, "As I get older, my husband says I get more beautiful every day." "Yeah, but your husband is an antique's dealer!" Mary replies.

"Hey, cabby! How much to take me to the airport?"

A woman went to her doctor's office for an annual check-up. Suddenly, another older doctor noticed the woman burst out of the examination room, screaming as she ran down the hall. He stopped the hysterical woman and asked her to sit down and relax. Then, he asked her what she was so upset about. A few minutes later, the older doctor marched into the woman's doctor's office and demanded, "What's the matter with you? Mrs. Blysworth is 63 years old. She has four grown children, and seven grandchildren... and you told her she was pregnant?!" The woman's doctor smiled smugly as he continued to write on his clipboard, "Cured her hiccups though, didn't I?"
